DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter, which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. It is not clear whether the primary constituent is a blend of monomers, initiator and water or slurry or a terpolymer with residual initiator. If it is the former it is unknown whether the initiator would initiate the polymerization reaction by heat or radiation, and that where said heat or light would come from.

3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter, which the applicant regards as his invention.

4. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.
5. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being incomplete for omitting essential elements, such omission amounting to a gap between the elements. See MPEP § 2172.01. The omitted elements are: the 10% of water by weight, which must be added to, the primary constituent before it is mixed with the secondary constituent. See the paragraph overlapping pages 2 and 3.

6. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being hybrid claims, that is they claim both a composition and a process. A claim can contain only one invention. One of ordinary skill in the art would not know whether the claims are directed to a composition or to the method of making it. The instant claims are definitely not product by process claims.
